the western hemisphere

this book tells the story of the turbulent decades when the book publishing industry collided with the great technological revolution of our time from the surge of ebooks to the self publishing explosion and the growing popularity of audiobooks book wars provides a comprehensive and fine grained account of technological disruption in one of our most important and successful creative industries like other sectors publishing has been thrown into disarray by the digital revolution the foundation on which this industry had been based for 500 years the packaging and sale of words and images in the form of printed books was called into question by a technological revolution that enabled symbolic content to be stored manipulated and transmitted quickly and cheaply publishers and retailers found themselves facing a proliferation of new players who were offering new products and services and challenging some of their most deeply held principles and beliefs the old industry was suddenly thrust into the limelight as bitter conflicts erupted between publishers and new entrants including powerful new tech giants who saw the world in very different ways the book wars had begun while ebooks were at the heart of many of these conflicts thompson argues that the most fundamental consequences lie elsewhere the print on paper book has proven to be a remarkably resilient cultural form but the digital revolution has transformed the industry in other ways spawning new players which now wield unprecedented power and giving rise to an array of new publishing forms most important of all it has transformed the broader information and communication environment creating new challenges and new opportunities for publishers as they seek to redefine their role in the digital age this unrivalled account of the book publishing industry as it faces its greatest challenge since gutenbergs will be essential reading for anyone interested in books and their future this book provides a foundation and framework to enhance your understanding of the various processes involved in academic writing the term academic writing here refers to the types of writing used in college level writing courses at both the undergraduate and graduate level however this book was not written simply to help you pass another english class or to get you through the next writing intensive course although it will certainly do that at some point you will be out in the real world hopefully thus the purpose of this book is to enable you to be an effective writer and thinker in all contexts including your personal and professional lives in the era of globalization trade policy has become a key development tool and expanding exports a major policy objective for developing countries however pressures for protectionism are threatening to reverse the gains the surge of anti dumping practices in the 1990s in many countries have triggered an intense debate on the anti dumping agreement and its implementation this volume analyses the importance of anti dumping from a developing country s perspective the author investigates the use of anti dumping in a comparative framework and reviews the genesis and evolution of the agreement and its legal provisions she further discusses the economic and non economic justifications of anti dumping use and empirically analyses the macro economic factors motivating countries to use anti dumping finally she examines the wide ranging proposals to reform the wto anti dumping code the analysis brings out a bias against developing countries and stresses the need for fundamental reform of current anti dumping rules the author also reflects on plausible approaches to refine existing provisions and explores the possibility of reform by including a public interest test she suggests updating the special and differential treatment provisions to remedy existing imbalances the world bank s research is intended to address critical issues and problems facing member governments in developing and transition economies how can the governments of the poorest countries generate enough revenue to provide the education and health services essential to reducing poverty and promoting growth and development how can poor countries attract investors to build the infrastructure their economies need how can they develop systems to bring clean water to the 2 billion people without it today how can they train teachers and bring to class the 115 million children who have not yet received any education and how can rich countries be persuaded to lower market barriers helping to reverse the decline in export prices for poor countries that has left them earning less from trade today than in the 1970s these are the types of questions that are addressed in this edition of the world bank research program abstracts from current studies this volume reports on research projects initiated under way or completed from july 2003 through june 2004 it covers 151 research projects on several broad development related issues including agriculture health education environment infrastructure investment climate and more the abstract for each project describes the questions addressed the analytic methods used the findings to date and policy implications
