the complete tradesman redresses the relative paucity of studies on the history of retailing before 1800 based upon extensive research into diverse trade sources cox takes issue with the surprisingly resilient stereotype of the dull and out of date shopkeeper in the early modern period showing that the retailing sector was well adapted to the social and economic needs of the day and quick to exploit new opportunities chapters cover not only distribution shop design customer relations and networks between tradesmen but also attitudes to retailing official controls and the response to novelty by throwing light on subjects hitherto overlooked and challenging existing whiggish preoccupations with progress towards modern retailing systems this study signals a new approach to the history of retailing the focus is placed on assessing how far tradesmen especially shopkeepers satisfied and stimulated contemporary desires for consumer goods

the scottish novelist alistair maclean didn't speak english until he was six but he went on to become one of the world's best selling authors over 150 million copies sold and hollywood's highest paid screenwriter his films are the very portrait of action where eagles dare the guns of navarone puppet on a chain and fear is the key set the template for die hard the bourne films and john wick the cable car fight speedboat pursuit and car chase set a new high for action sequences movies were sold on his name alone he achieved hollywood's highest honor his name above the title because he appealed to a vast global audience this is the first book to explore alistair maclean's unique magic detailing how 18 of his bestsellers were transformed into movies and mini series his movies starred clint eastwood charles bronson gregory peck donald sutherland multiple oscar nominees richard burton and richard harris and two time oscar winner anthony hopkins moviemakers had such faith in maclean's name as a marketing tool that they also handed leading roles to unknowns like george maharis or sven bertil taube this much needed work of cinema history fills a gap in the scholarship telling the full story of the man who dominated the action movie for two decades in i know that you know that i know butte explores how stories narrate human consciousness butte locates a historical shift in the representation of webs of consciousnesses in narrative what he calls deep intersubjectivity and examines the effect this shift has since had on western literature and culture the author studies narrative practices in two ways one pairing eighteenth and nineteenth century british novels moll flanders and great expectations for example and the other studying genre practices comedy anti comedy and masquerade in written and film narratives jane austen and her girl friday for example and hitchcock's cary grant films butte's second major claim argues for new ways to read representations of human consciousness whether or not they take the form of deep intersubjectivity phenomenological criticism has lost its credibility in recent years but this book identifies better reading strategies arising out of what the author calls poststructuralist phenomenology grounded largely in the work of the french philosopher merleau ponty butte criticizes the extreme of transcendental idealism first wave phenomenological criticism and cultural materialism when it rules out the study of consciousness he also criticizes the dominant lacanian framework of much academic film criticism
